Word-Weary Senators Set
To Reject 'Draftless Draft'

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 5—Senators weary by hours of wrangling appeared set today to reject a proposal for a "draftless draft"—a maneuver designed to block inductions of teen-agers.

The senate yesterday voted to resume the drafting of 16 and 19 year olds and senators who want to keep the Selective Service law intact were confident of defeating any draft "holiday."

The teen age draft cleared the chamber by a vote of 53 to 26.

11 In Trades Class
Including 2 Girls,
Awarded Diplomas

Two girls, Betty Lynch and Beatrice Hively, were among the 11 graduates of the Salem Trades class who received diplomas as journeyman craftsmen at the 12th annual commencement program Tuesday evening in the Memorial building.

Both are employed in the drafting room of the E. W. Bliss Co.

Supt. of School E. S. Kerr, who presented the diplomas following a turkey dinner, told the graduates their patience and sacrifices of the past four years would pay dividends in the new technical era ahead.

His remarks were echoed by Robert M. Reese, state supervisor of trades and industries, who spoke generally of vocational education. He lauded the Salem Trades Class program as well as the coordinator, Holland Cameron, who presided as toastmaster.

George P. Lozier, a school board member, and E. S. Dawson and James H. Wilson, former board members, were given recognition for having supported the Trades program from its infancy.

Others graduating last night included Robert A. Coy and John Schuster of the Electric Furnace Co.; Philip W. Stevens of the Salem Engineering Co.; Clifford E. Stanley of the National Sanitary Co.; Kenneth McKenzie of the Bliss Co.; Frank N. Green, Ernest Crofend, Walter D. Knoedler and Robert O. Lora of the Deming Co.

Trustees, Clerks Given
Talk On Highway Safety

LISBON, June 5—State Highway Patrolman Sylvester Lusk of the Salem sub-station spoke to members of the Columbiana County Clerks and Trustees association in the American Legion home here last night. His topic was "Safety On the Highways."

With about 50 present, President J. O. Carney of Madison township, presided. Announcement was made of the appointment of Neil McIntosh of St. Clair township as secretary, succeeding Mrs. Helen O'Brien who resigned after serving 16 years as secretary.

R. L. Hutcheson of Salem was program chairman. Musical selections were given by Patricia Ann McIntosh, Shirley Kidder, both of East Liverpool and Tom and Louis McKenna of Lisbon.

COMPLAINTS ON SEWERS FILED
WITH COUNCILClean - Out Ordered As Aftermath of Flood
Damage In City

Last week's record-breaking rainfall, which flooded basements in hundreds of Salem homes and caused thousands of dollars of damage throughout the city, had its effect on city council last night as some 23 property owners from all sections of the city personally presented complaints about the inadequacies of sewer systems.

Council heard the protests one by one and then passed a resolution instructing the service department to see that all clogged sewers were cleaned at once.

The solons also requested that a report be made to them on the progress of the work.

The protesting groups included citizens from Park ave., N. Union ave., W. State st., Newgarden st., N. Lincoln ave., E. Fifth st., W. Fifth st., Ohio ave., and E. Ninth st.

Plant Protest Heard
The Electric Furnace Co., probably hardest hit by the storm in the industrial area, filed a letter of recommendation to council requesting installation of proper storm sewers throughout that area.

Council indicated that engineering work is already begun to relieve some of the problems and that more will be instigated as soon as is possible.

A letter from the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. reported that the firm plans to carry out a renewal of railroad crossings at W. State st., S. Ellsworth ave. and Mill st. and also plans to pave the crossings at W. Pershing, W. Wilson st. and Newgarden st.

The work, the letter stated, will be completed by fall.

File Protest On Time Change
Another letter, signed "Farm Bureau Council," protested S. C. Smith's adoption of Daylight Savings time and asked that action be taken to revert to the older Eastern Standard time. This is the second such letter from a farm group that council has received.

Clerk Paul Myers reported that he has contacted six parking meter firms, requesting the presence of representatives at the special session on parking meters at city hall at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, and has received replies from four, all of which indicated that they would be represented at the meeting.

Council will meet at that time with Charles Haldi and Harold Smith, members of the Business Bureau parking meter committee and the city board of control.

The purpose of the session is to study and determine what type of meters are to be installed in Salem.

Finance Committee Chairman Harry Vincent reported that his group will have a report sometime early next week on the issues the city may wish to present to voters in the November election.

The city must inform the board of elections of any special issues it may want on the ballot by Aug. 7, according to a letter received from Frank O'Hanlon, clerk.

Altomare was found guilty on a charge of burglarizing the Recreation Billiard parlor here a year ago of nearly $3,000 and had appealed the lower court's decision.

A partner in the crime, Quinn, also of Salem, was given a similar sentence but did not appeal the case.

Both men have been at liberty under bond. They are expected to be taken into custody to begin their terms in the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus.

Recent Selective Service regulation changes, in which Congress temporarily halted the induction of teen-age youths, made it impossible for the Salem draft board to fulfill its quota for the month of June.

The board received a call for 30 men this month but was unable to send a single man since records revealed that there are no local eligibles in the 21-29 age group.

Joseph Edward Wagner of Akron, who was registered here, the only eligible candidate for induction, applied for and received a transfer to an Akron board and was inducted today with a group of Akron men.

'BOTTOM' HIT IN FLOUR SHORTAGE,
BREAD SITUATION BOUND TO IMPROVE

CHICAGO, June 5—The nation has struck "bottom" in the current domestic flour shortage, the Millers National federation said today, and a gradual easing of the critical bread shortage may start in two or three weeks.

There were two signs the nation's worst bread shortage soon will be on the wane, they were:

1—The new spring wheat crop, which has started coming in in Texas and Oklahoma, is running 25 percent above pre-harvest expectations.

2—The Department of Agriculture crafted a plan for dipping into foreign relief wheat stocks to relieve conditions in the most acute bread shortage areas in the country.

Herman Steen, executive secretary of the Millers National federation, said "this is the worst week the millers will have." Between 80 and 90 percent of the nation's flour mills will shut down because of lack of wheat to grind into flour, he said.

New Crops Excellent
He added, however, that the spring wheat harvest started in the southwest in mid-May with excellent yields. He predicted the acute shortage would be considerably relieved by mid-to late July as more of the new crop reaches the mills.

The wheat harvest will run into September, moving gradually northward, with the grain being made available to the mills as it is harvested.

However, Steen said he saw no immediate boost in bread output, even if the government's plan for lending foreign-consigned wheat to mills "proves workable."

He said "government red tape," shipping the grain from elevators to the mills, getting the right "blend" for bread flour and delivering the flour to the bakers, would require a time lag of two or more weeks.

Dip Into Reserves
Under the government "loan" plan, a domestic mill qualifying for such wheat could get only enough to bring its supply up to one-half of its June allotment for domestic sale. Under a previous department order, domestic mills this month are allowed to distribute only 75 percent as much flour as the monthly average of 1945.

Although the prospect of relief was in sight, scarcely any city was without a bread shortage. With new supplies cut off or reduced to a trickle, sources in the baking industry said, most bakeries have had to dip into their own dwindling flour reserves for their current output.

Pajama Clad
Guests Flee
From Hotel

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 5—Chicago's financial district was thrown into wild, tragic, screaming confusion early today by the spectacular La Salle hotel fire which took an estimated 57 lives and injured about 200 others.

Many screaming guests, trapped on the upper floors of the 20-story hotel, leaped out of windows, waving bedclothes and apparently trying to decide whether to jump or stay in their rooms.

On the streets below, firemen and bystanders shouted: "Sit tight—We'll get you all out."

Steady streams of nightgown and pajama clad guests clogged fire escapes. Luggage and clothing dropped like rain from the windows and fire escapes.

Firemen carried other guests down ladders rigged on Madison and La Salle street sides of the hotel. Serious panic was feared because of the dense smoke, although little flame was visible.

Firemen quickly mobilized bystanders to assist guests. Three Chicago youths found elderly Claude Stratton of Sullivan, Ind., and Miami, Fla., a small, slender man attempting to aid his 75-year old wife, Winifred, down a 16th floor fire escape. She was almost overcome from smoke.

They placed her in a chair and carried her to safety. Stratton at St. Luke's hospital later rewarded the trio with a $500 check.

One hysterical unidentified woman rushed up to firemen on the street and screamed:

"My sister had a heart attack on the 13th floor and she's dying. I tried to help her but she told me to go."

In contrast, coming down the fire escape, displaying unusual calmness, was a blind woman clutching the harness of a seeing eye dog. They got to the street all right.

Women Scream
Meyer Goldberg, a Detroit, Mich., jeweler, said the halls were a "pandemonium of women screaming." He said he formed seven of them into a chain and led them by flashlight to a 12th floor fire escape.

Coming down, he related, the 10th floor entrance was blocked by Turn to PAJAMA CLAD, Page 8

200 LA SALLE
GUESTS HURT
IN EARLY FIREMany Victims Suffocated
By Smoke When Trapped
In Lower Floors

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 5—Fifty-seven persons were killed and an estimated 200 others were injured, some probably fatally, early today in the most disastrous hotel fire in Chicago's history as flames and dense smoke trapped hundreds in the lower floors of the 20-story LaSalle hotel.

Fire department and Red Cross officials, working feverishly through the early morning hours, announced the number of fatalities as firemen made a final search of the ruins of additional bodies.

More than 300 firemen and some 250 policemen aided in fighting the blaze and in rescuing scores of persons trapped in the 838-room hotel, located in the center of Chicago's financial district at LaSalle and Madison streets.

Many Suffocate
Fire officials said most of the dead apparently had suffocated after they were unable to make their way to safety through the heavy clouds of smoke which poured into the first half dozen floors. Others lost their lives when they attempted to escape by jumping. The bodies of several were found on a third floor rear landing.

There was wild confusion inside the 25-year-old hostelry as scores of the guests, many of them in their night clothing, ran to open windows, waving bedclothing and screaming for help.

Most of the guests in rooms above the sixth floor were rescued by firemen or fled by way of fire escapes. However, the smoke was reported so dense on the lower floors, scores were unable to grope their way to an exit or to a window to be rescued.

The hotel management reported that between 1,100 and 1,200 guests were in the building when the fire broke out.

Rush Victims To Hospitals
A fleet of 50 patrol wagons, all available ambulances and private automobiles were used to remove the dead and dying to hospitals. An emergency morgue was set up in the city hall building, a block away. The Red Cross also set up first aid stations at the scene and at the city hall and at the several hospitals where the injured were taken.

Thousands lined Madison and LaSalle streets and watched the firemen fight the stubborn blaze and rescue the trapped guests. The 250 policemen, as well as military police and navy shore patrolmen, aided in the rescue efforts.

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan said the blaze was discovered about 12:30 a. m. in the lobby and flames spread rapidly through elevator shafts. He said although flames shot up the elevator shaft to the roof of the building, most of the fire damage was confined to the lower six floors.

Investigation Is Begun
Corrigan estimated damage to the hotel at $100,000 and termed the fire "the worst hotel fire in the city's history." He said the great billows of smoke, fanned by the opening of windows and doors by guests attempting to escape, seriously hampered firemen in fighting the blaze.

Corrigan said an immediate investigation was being made and said that preceding the discovery of the fire there were three explosions. An extra alarm was turned in immediately and a second extra alarm within 45 minutes.

The hundreds of guests who escaped, many without shoes and in night clothes, were accommodated in other Loop hotels which set up extra cots in lobbies and ballrooms.

Of the injured, more than 30 were firemen, while one fire department official, Battalion Chief Eugene Freeman, 53, died in a hospital where he had been removed after collapsing while fighting the fire.

Motorcycle Rider Not Hurt When Hit by Taxi

Regis Stiffer of R. D. 2, Salem, escaped uninjured at 7:50 a. m. today when a motorcycle on which he was riding was struck by a taxi, driven by Shirley Stelmeyer of 153 1/2 S. Broadway, at the intersection of S. Ellsworth ave. and South ave.

The cab was coming out of the alley, police said, and struck the motorcycle, headed south on Ellsworth ave.

MRS. HELENA DAVIS, who lost her sight when she was 18 years old, has regained it after 17 years of darkness. Resigned to her life of blindness all these years, Mrs. Davis and her husband heard a radio program dealing with the restoration of sight by surgery. The husband wrote to the radio station and as a result Mrs. Davis entered a hospital and underwent two operations. Her sight is only 10 per cent of normal but she can read the face of a clock and has "seen" a movie. She lives in Philadelphia. (International)

'BOTTOM' HIT IN FLOUR SHORTAGE, BREAD SITUATION BOUND TO IMPROVE

CHICAGO, June 5.—The nation has struck "bottom" in the current domestic flour shortage, the Millers National federation said today, and a gradual easing of the critical bread shortage may start in two or three weeks.

There were two signs the nation's worst bread shortage soon will be on the wane, they were:

1.—The new spring wheat crop, which has started coming in in Texas and Oklahoma, is running 25 percent above pre-harvest expectations.

2.—The Department of Agriculture drafted a plan for dipping into foreign relief wheat stocks to relieve conditions in the most acute bread shortage areas in the country.

Herman Steen, executive secretary of the Millers National federation, said "this is the worst wheat the millers will have." Between 80 and 90 percent of the nation's flour mills will shut down because of lack of wheat to grind into flour, he said.

New Crops Excellent

He added, however, that the spring wheat harvest started in the southwest in mid-May with excellent yields. He predicted the acute shortage would be considerably relieved by mid-to late July as more of the new crop reaches the mills.

The wheat harvest will run into September, moving gradually northward, with the grain being made available to the mills as it is harvested.

However, Steen said he saw no immediate boost in bread output, even if the government's plan for lending foreign-consigned wheat to mills "proves workable."

He said "government red tape," shipping the grain from elevators to the mills, getting the right "blend" for bread flour and delivering the flour to the bakers, would require a time lag of two or more weeks.

Dip Into Reserves

Under the government "loan" plan, a domestic mill qualifying for such wheat could get only enough to bring its supply up to one-half of its June allotment for domestic sale. Under a previous department order, domestic mills this month are allowed to distribute only 75 percent as much flour as the monthly average of 1945.

Although the prospect of relief was in sight, scarcely any city was without a bread shortage. With new supplies cut off or reduced to a trickle, sources in the baking industry said, most bakeries have had to dip into their own dwindling flour reserves for their current output.

Pajama Clad Guests Flee From Hotel

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 5.—Chicago's financial district was thrown into wild, tragic, screaming confusion early today by the spectacular La Salle hotel fire which took an estimated 57 lives and injured about 200 others.

Many screaming guests, trapped on the upper floors of the 20-story hotel, leaped out of windows, waving bedclothes and apparently trying to decide whether to jump or stay in their rooms.

On the streets below, firemen and bystanders shouted: "Sit tight—We'll get you out."

Steady streams of nightgown and pajama clad guests clogged fire escapes. Luggage and clothing dropped like rain from the windows and fire escapes.

Firemen carried other guests down ladders rigged on Madison and La Salle street sides of the hotel. Serious panic was feared because of the dense smoke, although little flame was visible.

Rescuers Rewarded

Firemen quickly mobilized by bystanders to assist guests. Three Chicago youths found elderly Claude Stratton of Sullivan, Ind., and Miami, Fla., a small, slender man attempting to aid his 75-year old wife, Winifred, down a 16th floor fire escape. She was almost overcome from smoke.

They placed her in a chair and carried her to safety. Stratton at St. Luke's hospital later rewarded the trio with a $500 check.

One hysterical unidentified woman rushed up to firemen on the street and screamed:

"My sister had a heart attack on the 13th floor and she's dying. I tried to help her but she told me to go."

In contrast, coming down the fire escape, displaying unusual calmness, was a blind woman clutching the harness of a seeing eye dog. They got to the street all right.

Women Scream

Meyer Goldberg, a Detroit, Mich., jeweler, said the halls were a "panic demonstration of women screaming." He said he formed seven of them into a chain and led them by matchlight to a 12th floor fire escape.

Coming down, he related, the 10th floor entrance was blocked by

200 LA SALLE GUESTS HURT IN EARLY FIRE

Many Victims Suffocated By Smoke When Trapped In Lower Floors

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 5.—Fifty-seven persons were killed and an estimated 200 others were injured, some probably fatally, early today in the most disastrous hotel fire in Chicago's history as flames and dense smoke trapped hundreds in the lower floors of the 20-story LaSalle hotel.

Fire department and Red Cross officials, working feverishly through the early morning hours, announced the number of fatalities as firemen made a final search of the ruins for additional bodies.

More than 300 firemen and some 250 policemen aided in fighting the blaze and in rescuing scores of persons trapped in the 838-room hotel, located in the center of Chicago's financial district at LaSalle and Madison streets.

Many Suffocate

Fire officials said most of the dead apparently had suffocated after they were unable to make their way to safety through the heavy clouds of smoke which poured into the first half dozen floors. Others lost their lives when they attempted to escape by jumping.

The bodies of several who were found on a third floor landing.

There was wild confusion inside the 25-year-old hostelry as scores of the guests, many of them in their night clothing, ran to open windows, waving bedclothing and screaming for help.

Most of the guests in rooms above the sixth floor were rescued by firemen or fled by way of fire escapes. However, the smoke was reported so dense on the lower floors, scores were unable to grope their way to an exit or to a window to be rescued.

The hotel management reported that between 1,100 and 1,200 guests were in the building when the fire broke out.

Rush Victims To Hospitals

A fleet of 50 patrol wagons, all available ambulances and private automobiles were used to remove the dead and dying to hospitals. An emergency morgue was set up in the city hall building, a block away. The Red Cross also set up first aid stations at the scene and at the city hall and at the several hospitals where the injured were taken.

Thousands lined Madison and LaSalle streets and watched the firemen fight the stubborn blaze and rescue the trapped guests. The 250 policemen, as well as military police and navy shore patrolmen, aided in the rescue efforts.

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan said the blaze was discovered about 12:30 a. m. in the lobby and flames spread rapidly through elevator shafts. He said although flames shot up the elevator shaft to the roof of the building, most of the fire damage was confined to the lower six floors.

Investigation Is Begun

Corrigan estimated damage to the hotel at $100,000 and termed the fire "the worst hotel fire in the city's history." He said the great billows of smoke, fanned by the opening of windows and doors by guests attempting to escape, seriously hampered firemen in fighting the blaze.

Corrigan said an immediate investigation was being made and said that preceding the discovery of the fire there were three explosions. An extra alarm was turned extra alarm within 45 minutes.

The hundreds of guests who escaped, many without shoes and in night clothes, were accommodated in other Loop hotels which set up extra cots in lobbies and ballrooms.

Of the injured, more than 30 were firemen, while one fire department official, Battalion Chief Eugene Freeman, 55, died in a hospital where he had been removed after collapsing while fighting the fire.

Motorcycle Rider Not Hurt When Hit by Taxi

Regis Stiffler of R. D. 2, Salem, escaped uninjured at 7:50 a. m. today when a motorcycle on which he was riding was struck by a taxi, driven by Shirley Steinmetz of 153 1/2 S. Broadway, at the intersection of S. Ellsworth ave. and South alley.

The cab was coming out of the alley, police said, and struck the motorcycle, headed south on Ellsworth ave.

Bargaining: Third Step

As practiced in the soft coal industry, bargaining about wages passes through three standard steps. Step No. 3 is now being taken. Mine operators are asking for permission to raise the price of coal.

In Step 1, John L. Lewis opens negotiations with the operators. He presents demands. The operators cannot grant them without losing control of their enterprise. Mr. Lewis knows this and does not expect them to agree. At the deadline for making a new contract, he orders a work stoppage, under the rule that United Mine Workers will not work without a contract.

Step 2. The government seizes the mines and opens negotiations with Mr. Lewis—negotiations of a special kind, in which he tells what he wants and a political appointee gives it to him. When everything has been done to his satisfaction, Mr. Lewis tells the miners to go back to work. The coal strike drops out of public view. The operators wish they could get their mines back, but there still are details to be ironed out.

Step 3. The operators figure out what the government gave to Mr. Lewis and how they are going to raise the money. They appeal to the proper bureaucratic authority for permission to raise the price of coal. There is a lot of talk about holding down the price of coal. The price of coal goes up. A few more mines give up. The competitive position of coal becomes a little worse. More strip mines are opened. Consumers of coal rationalize that the miners deserve whatever they get and forget John L. Lewis until the next work stoppage in the coal mines. Eventually, the operators get their mines back, and it is time for John L. Lewis to start Step No. 1 again.

All Skirts Cleared

When Britain's Foreign Secretary Bevin finishes what he has to say in his report on the Paris meeting of foreign ministers, all diplomatic skirts will be cleared. Secretary of State Byrnes, Foreign Minister Molotov and Foreign Secretary Bidault already have made their speeches of recrimination.

They have been in significant agreement, and Mr. Bevin probably will be of the same mind. The United States, Great Britain, the Soviet Union and France are not making progress on their common problems because they lack a common purpose. Each has pet purposes intolerable, or at the best distasteful to one or more of the others.

Furthermore, each suspects one or more of the others of trying to go behind its back or over its head ideologically. And if this weren't enough, none of the four ever did anything to earn the confidence of the other three. Toned down to sound like diplomatic language, this is what the foreign ministers have to say at the end of their second attempt to get better acquainted. "We are doing our best, but the obstacles are insuperable."

The obstacles were not insuperable in wartime when the Allies had the common purpose of survival. If they are insuperable now, it is because the masses of people in all the countries concerned are being misrepresented by government. The people have a common purpose—to stay alive against the threat of another and still more horrible war. Their diplomats do protest too much.

Sweethearts In Every Port

An appeal to the World Federation of Trade Unions by Harry Bridges and Joseph Curran, heads of the C. I. O. maritime unions threatening a strike against U. S. shipping, shows which way the wind is blowing in seagoing unionism.

Bridges and Curran have called for a secondary strike, in effect, against the shipping of this country by organized sailors throughout the world. Two circumstances of the request are significant. One is the well-founded suspicion that both men are either carrying Communists, or so close to the Communist line that they might as well be carrying cards. The other is the nature of the World Federation of Trade Unions, whose convention will be held this month in Moscow.

C. I. O. leaders in the United States have been playing close to this organization. Among them has been Sidney Hillman, head of the C. I. O. political Action Committee. The kind of an appeal that has been made by Bridges and Curran confirms an impression that political action in the United States is part of a plan of international political action. The chief executive of the United States, which owns most U. S. shipping, is going to be coerced in a labor dispute by international pressure, if the maritime unions can swing it.

There is more dynamite slumbering in the maritime labor dispute than ever will be found in the discussion of seamen's wages.

For a Recheck In 1950

Among the verbal Texas leaguers bothering American baseball owners reluctant to share their national game with Mexico is this thought-provoker from a spokesman for Bernardo Pasquel, the Mexican magnate with the big bankroll:

"We are simply paying them (the American players who have been hired by Pasquel) more than they get—which is less than they deserve—in the United States."

The thought-provoking part of the statement is the supposition the players are worth what they are getting to play for in Mexico. No one can know what a baseball player is worth in Mexico. The value of the players who have left organized baseball in the United States remains to be determined by the drawing power of Mexican baseball.

In this country, a player may be worth more to the New York Yankees than the Philadelphia Athletics.

ately, not all big league players can work for teams that make money. By 1950, the Mexican league, as bolstered by imported talent, will have its own accounting experience to tell it what a baseball player is worth. In the meantime, it has what a few blessed teams in this country have had at various times—a wealthy man's big roll, which is not a reliable clue to the real value of baseball players, race horses, works of art, or any of the other collectible items that help to make big rolls get smaller.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

An Invisible Aid To Vision

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
GLASSES, when needed to correct troubles of the eyes or faulty vision, are a boon to most of us, yet a bespectacled actress might suffer a fatal professional handicap.

The same thing is true of dancers, and even public speakers might find glasses inconvenient. Wearing glasses would be definitely dangerous to football players, boxers or chemical workers.

Modern medicine has found the answer to this problem in one of its most interesting and promising developments—contact lenses. These lenses, which do away with the need for ordinary glasses, are fitted under the eyelids and over the eyes in such a way as to be invisible.

Worn By Thousands

Brought out about 20 years ago, contact lenses are now worn, according to Dr. Thomas Augustus Griffith of Kentucky, by about 10,000 people in the United States. There is one type of eye disorder in which they are found particularly effective. This is known as keratoconus in which there is a cone shape of the front part of the cornea or eyeball.

The contact lenses may also be used effectively in cases of severe astigmatism in which the eyeball is misshapen. They can also be worn following the removal of a cataract or hardened lens. They are also used when one eye requires much greater correction than the other.

Cause Unknown

The cause of keratoconus is not known. It interferes greatly with eyesight on account of scarring of the cornea and the great amount of nearsightedness. The condition always affects both eyes but may start in one and progress to the other. Dr. Griffith has worn contact lenses himself for a period of three years or more.

In wearing a contact lens a fluid made up of salt and soda in water is employed. After a period of three or four hours the fluid may become cloudy, and the lens must be removed and fresh fluid put in.

These lenses, of course, must be fitted by the doctor but the patient soon can learn to remove and reinsert the lens. In fact, Dr. Griffith th says that it requires only about ten minutes.

The lenses cannot be worn continuously. Such symptoms as slight burning of the lids may develop after a time. When this happens the lenses should be removed and the eyes given a chance to rest.

Letters to Dr. Bundesen should be addressed in care of 235 E. 45th st., New York City.

Bargaining: Third Step

As practiced in the soft coal industry, bargaining about wages passes through three standard steps. Step No. 3 is now being taken. Mine operators are asking for permission to raise the price of coal.

In Step 1, John L. Lewis opens negotiations with the operators. He presents demands. The operators cannot grant them without losing control of their enterprise. Mr. Lewis knows this and does not expect them to agree. At the deadline for making a new contract, he orders a work stoppage, under the rule that United Mine Workers will not work without a contract.

Step 2 The government seizes the mines and opens negotiations with Mr. Lewis—negotiations of a special kind, in which he tells what he wants and a political appointee gives it to him. When everything has been done to his satisfaction, Mr. Lewis tells the miners to go back to work. The coal strike drops out of public view. The operators wish they could get their mines back, but there still are details to be ironed out.

Step 3 The operators figure out what the government gave to Mr. Lewis and how they are going to raise the money. They appeal to the proper bureaucratic authority for permission to raise the price of coal. There is a lot of talk about holding down the price of coal. The price of coal goes up. A few more mines give up. The competitive position of coal becomes a little worse. More strip mines are opened. Consumers of coal rationalize that the miners deserve whatever they get and forget John L. Lewis until the next work stoppage in the coal mines. Eventually, the operators get their mines back, and it is time for John L. Lewis to start Step No. 1 again.

All Skirts Cleared

When Britain's Foreign Secretary Bevin finishes what he has to say in his report on the Paris meeting of foreign ministers, all diplomatic skirts will be cleared. Secretary of State Byrnes, Foreign Minister Molotov and Foreign Secretary Bidault already have made their speeches of recrimination.

They have been in significant agreement, and Mr. Bevin probably will be of the same mind. The United States, Great Britain, the Soviet Union and France are not making progress on their common problems because they lack a common purpose. Each has pet purposes intolerable, or at the best distasteful to one or more of the others.

Furthermore, each suspects one or more of the others of trying to go behind its back or over its head ideologically. And if this weren't enough, none of the four ever did anything to earn the confidence of the other three. Toned down to sound like diplomatic language, this is what the foreign ministers have to say at the end of their second attempt to get better acquainted. "We are doing our best, but the obstacles are insuperable."

The obstacles were not insuperable in wartime when the Allies had the common purpose of survival. If they are insuperable now, it is because the masses of people in all the countries concerned are being misrepresented by government. The people have a common purpose—to stay alive against the threat of another and still more horrible war. Their diplomats do protest too much.

Sweethearts In Every Port

An appeal to the World Federation of Trade Unions by Harry Bridges and Joseph Curran, heads of the C. I. O. maritime unions threatening a strike against U. S. shipping, shows which way the wind is blowing in seagoing unionism.

Bridges and Curran have called for a secondary strike, in effect, against the shipping of this country by organized sailors throughout the world. Two circumstances of the request are significant. One is the well-founded suspicion that both men are either card-carrying Communists, or so close to the Communist line that they might as well be carrying cards. The other is the nature of the World Federation of Trade Unions, whose convention will be held this month in Moscow.

C. I. O. leaders in the United States have been playing close to this organization. Among them has been Sidney Hillman, head of the C. I. O. political Action Committee. The kind of an appeal that has been made by Bridges and Curran confirms an impression that political action in the United States is part of a plan of international political action. The chief executive of the United States, which owns most U. S. shipping, is going to be coerced in a labor dispute by international pressure, if the maritime unions can swing it.

There is more dynamite slumbering in the maritime labor dispute than ever will be found in the discussion of seamen's wages.

For a Recheck In 1950

Among the verbal Texas leaguers bothering American baseball owners reluctant to share their national game with Mexico is this thought-provoker from a spokesman for Bernardo Pasquel, the Mexican magnate with the big bankroll:

"We are simply paying them (the American players who have been hired by Pasquel) more than they get—which is less than they deserve—in the United States."

The thought-provoking part of the statement is the supposition the players are worth what they are signing to play for in Mexico. No one can know what a baseball player is worth in Mexico. The value of the players who have left organized baseball in the United States remains to be determined by the drawing power of Mexican baseball.

In this country, a player may be worth more to the New York Yankees than the Philadelphia Athletics because New York draws more customers. Unfortunately, not all big league players can work for teams that make money. By 1950, the Mexican league, as bolstered by imported talent, will have its own accounting experience to tell it what a baseball player is worth. In the meantime, it has what a few blessed teams in this country have had at various times—a wealthy man's big roll, which is not a reliable clue to the real value of baseball players, race horses, works of art, or any of the other collectible items that help to make big rolls get smaller.

The Stars Say

For Thursday, June 6

WHILE the forces, energies and faculties are still under exceptional stimuli for great creative performance, in which novelty and ingenuity have essential urge, yet a spectacular reversal may manifest "like a bolt from the blue" blocking plans and operations, possibly by the sudden and unforeseen withdrawal of indispensable support or co-operation from high sources.

Eccentric, erratic, rash or temperamental conduct may be at the root of this mishap, devastating and disturbing. However, a show of compromise, amiability, personal charm, or certain reorganized techniques, might avert shattered hopes and wishes.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is have the power to "save the day" from disintegrating, devastating and smashing situations by a disposition to yield in crises, where supporting forces seem ready to "quit."

It is probable that this menacing circumstance may have been incited by erratic, rash or quixotic attitude, or flash of temperamental "genius" when it might have been better to use restraint, compromise, or even personal lures and charms, which are greatly stimulated at this time.

A child born on this day, while possessing an attractive personality and gracious manners, yet may have eccentric, erratic or peculiar fancies which need firm restraints for furthering its excellent prospects and happiness.

A New York boy told doctors he swallowed 18 marbles, and X-rays proved it. He really plays for keeps!

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

An Invisible Aid To Vision

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

GLASSES, when needed to correct troubles of the eyes or faulty vision, are a boon to most of us, yet a bespectacled actress might suffer a fatal professional handicap.

The same thing is true of dancers, and even public speakers might find glasses inconvenient. Wearing glasses would be definitely dangerous to football players, boxers or chemical workers.

Modern medicine has found the answer to this problem in one of its most interest-provoking achievements—contact lenses. These lenses, which do away with the need for ordinary glasses, are fitted under the eyelids and over the eyes in such a way as to be invisible.

Worn By Thousands

Brought out about 20 years ago, contact lenses are now worn, according to Dr. Thomas Augustus Griffith of Kentucky, by about 10,000 people in the United States.

There is one type of eye disorder in which they are found particularly effective. This is known as keratoconus in which there is a cone shape of the front part of the cornea or eyeball.

The contact lenses may also be used effectively in cases of severe astigmatism in which the eyeball is misshapen. They can also be worn following the removal of a cataract or hardened lens. They are also used when one eye requires much greater correction than the other.

Cause Unknown

The cause of keratoconus is not known. It interferes greatly with eyesight on account of scarring of the cornea and the great amount of nearsightedness. The condition always affects both eyes but may start in one and progress to the other. Dr. Griffith has worn contact lenses himself for a period of three years or more.

In wearing a contact lens a fluid made up of salt and soda in water is employed. After a period of three or four hours the fluid may become cloudy, and the lens must be removed and fresh fluid put in.

These lenses, of course, must be fitted by the doctor but the patient soon can learn to remove and reinsert the lens. In fact, Dr. Griffith fith says that it requires only about ten minutes.

The lenses cannot be worn continuously. Such symptoms as slight burning of the lids may develop after a time. When this happens the lenses should be removed and the eyes given a chance to rest.

Letters to Dr. Bundesen should be addressed in care of 235 E. 45th st., New York City.

The handle of the "Big Dipper" points toward the star Arcturus.

Lawyer To Contest Use Of Navy Ships In Tests

WASHINGTON, June 5 — James J. Regan, Jr., a Philadelphia lawyer, has filed a taxpayer's suit seeking to block the use of naval vessels in the Bikini atom bomb tests, scheduled for about July 1.

Regan, in an action filed in district court, contends the destruction of navy ships is prohibited by law. Defendants include Secretary of Navy Forrestal, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Gen. Carl Spaatz, and Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy.

"SALEM'S FRIENDLIEST STORE"

545 East State Street, Phone 4852

Boyle's COLUMN

BY HAL BOYLE
STOCKHOLM, June 5.—Sweden has the quietest street traffic in the world. It's against the law for motorists to sound their horns, so they've learned to use their brakes. Accidents are fewer and the pedestrian is considered to have some rights.
Bicycles abound throughout Scandinavia and many main roads have special paths for cyclists. Children in Denmark seem to learn to cycle before they walk and teen-age boys and girls think nothing of a 25-mile grand jaunt. Even grandpa and grandma pedal about town on bicycles. And they manage to look dignified.
The nights are tricky this time of year for visitors. It never gets really darker than a spring twilight in America. The Scandinavians are so glad to get rid of everlasting night of winter that they keep only a few hours at a time to get the most of the sun. Like the Germans, they are sun worshippers and at every opportunity stretch out on beach and porch and park grass to get an early season tan.

Few Mixtures
Swedish people have occupied one area longer than probably any race in history without notable admixtures. It wouldn't be fair to say they're inbred, but they certainly are more solid and matter-of-fact than their brethren in other northern countries.

The Finns are reported to be the hardest workers, the Norwegians are perhaps the heaviest drinkers, and the Danes are the most like Americans in outlook. They are prosperous but like to spend their money, whereas you sometimes get the impression the Swedes are looking around to see if anyone is trying to take their away from them.

The most popular display in Stockholm isn't the windows full of cheese, butter and eggs. It is a store exhibiting two civilian style keeps complete with side curtains and all kinds of fancy trimmings. American soldiers on leave stand and gawk at them and cause crowds to gather.
Swedish women traveling to other European countries can make more than pocket money from their country's plenty. One bought a milk coat for 12,000 kroner in Stockholm and took it along to London where she had no trouble disposing of it for 40,000 kroner—a neat profit of better than $7,000.

By such methods a Swedish couple can finance a vacation trip to England or France and come out well ahead.

Like Americans
In any Scandinavian country an American is stopped at least twice a day by some stranger who says, "My, it's good to hear that language again." It really gives you a warm feeling of welcome.

Visiting American soldiers have some difficulty understanding Scandinavian girls. Prostitution is almost unknown and street pickups are rare compared to such cities as Rome, London and Paris.

There are many more women than men—why, I don't know—and it's strictly a man's world.
Swedish women have the same criticisms against their husbands as many Englishwomen. That is, the courtship ceases completely at the altar and thereafter the man often regards his wife as no more than a household drudge and slipper-carrier.

You can tell what Scandinavian land you're in by saying, "The Germans are really having it tough now." If your auditor replies "it's good enough for them," you are in Norway or Denmark. If he lets out a sympathetic cluck—you're in Sweden.

Recall Steelworkers
YOUNGSTOWN, June 5.—Approximately 35,000 Youngstown steel plant workers who have been idle because of coal and rail strikes began returning to their jobs yesterday. Steel company sources said, however, capacity production probably could not be reached before the end of June.

Sees Super Rocket Developed By 1950

CLEVELAND, June 5.—Lt. Gen. Ira C. Baker, deputy commander of the army air force, predicted today by 1950 a super rocket would be developed with a range close to 5,000 miles and a speed of from 1,000 to 3,000 miles an hour.

He said in an address prepared for delivery before the army ordnance association "it is absolutely certain" that any of the world's principal industrial nations could develop such a rocket in the next few years.

General Baker declared the rocket would be able to travel at heights sufficient to overcome the earth's curvature and deliver 10 to 20 tons of explosives with great accuracy.

The session honored Brig. Gen. Benedict Corwell of Cleveland, who headed the association from the time of its organization shortly after the first World War until he resigned last April.

"I'm as willing to help the British to the extent we can afford to help them and that we should, as any other good American, but feel very strongly that the proposed loan has not been properly negotiated," said Jones, publisher of the Houston (Tex.) Chronicle.

Ford To Construct Research Center

DETROIT, June 5.—Plans for the construction of a new research and engineering center to cost an estimated $50,000,000 were announced today by Henry Ford II, president of the Ford Motor Co.

Young Ford said the center, to be located on a 500-acre tract in near-by Dearborn, not far from the present Ford engineering laboratory will consist of a primary group of eight buildings, grouped around an artificial lake.

"Behind this large expenditure," he said, "is our determination to use every aid which science and research can give us in our job. That job, as we see it, is to make more and better motor cars at prices that more and more people can afford."

Describing the project at a news conference as "one of the largest developments of its kind in industry," Ford said it will take eight years to complete. He added:

"The center will be dedicated to my grandfather, Henry Ford, (founder of the Ford Motor Co.), who 50 years ago drove the first Ford car through downtown Detroit, and to the memory of my father, Edsel B. Ford."

The elder Henry Ford was one of 14 industry pioneers inducted into a newly established automotive hall of fame last Friday evening at ceremonies commemorating the industry's golden jubilee.

Sees Super Rocket Developed By 1950

CLEVELAND, June 5.—Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, deputy commander of the army air forces, predicted today by 1950 a super rocket would be developed with a range close to 5,000 miles and a speed of from 1,000 to 3,000 miles an hour.

He said in an address prepared for delivery before the army ordnance association "it is absolutely certain" that any of the world's principal industrial nations could develop such a rocket in the next four years.

General Eaker declared the rocket would be able to travel at heights sufficient to overcome the earth's curvature and deliver 10 to 20 tons of explosives with great accuracy.

The session honored Brig. Gen. Benedict Corwell of Cleveland, who headed the association from the time of its organization shortly after the first World War until he resigned last April.

British Loan Will Ruin U. S., Says Jesse Jones

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Jesse H. Jones, former commerce secretary, expressed belief today the proposed $3,750,000,000 British loan "carries us along the road toward financial ruin."

"I feel very keenly that the congress will make an irreparable mistake if it authorizes this loan in its present form," Jones wrote Chairman Speaner (D-Ky.) of the House Banking committee. The committee is considering the loan legislation, had requested Jones' views.

"I'm as willing to help the British to the extent we can afford to help them and that we should, as any other good American, but feel very strongly that the proposed loan has not been properly negotiated," said Jones, publisher of the Houston (Tex.) Chronicle.

School Lunch Plan Gets Truman's O. K.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—President Truman signed the national school lunch act today with the comment that it provides the basis "for strengthening the nation through better nutrition for our school children."

The legislation authorizes federal appropriations, in amounts to be determined each year, to finance the lunch program in co-operation with state and local governments.

State-local contributions must match federal funds dollar for dollar through 1950, with the government contribution decreasing thereafter on the following basis: 1951 through 1955, one dollar of federal funds for each $1.50 of state-local funds; 1956 and thereafter, one dollar of federal funds for each $3 state-local funds.

In addition to the funds for actual provision of lunches for children, the legislation authorizes the secretary of agriculture to use up to $10,000,000 annually to provide equipment for storing, preparing and serving food in schools.

"The Bambino" Blasts Majors For Failure To Interest "Kids"

BY JACK HAND
NEW YORK, June 5.—Babe Ruth, a 238-pound golfer and bowler who used to be a ball player, sees a dark cloud behind baseball's new golden age in the decline of interest by the youth of America.

"Sure, the kids go to the games when they are played in the daytime," the Bambino agreed. "But they don't get a chance to play. Why with seven million people in New York, we don't have more than half a dozen real big leaguers. It's a disgrace."

"Baseball ought to do something about it but all they're interested in is putting nine men on a field and letting it go. They voted to spend $100,000 on a new promotion program, that isn't even a drop in the bucket. "I'd like to make a tour of the world, just trying to get other countries to play baseball. When kids have their mind on a game, they don't have time to get into any trouble. It's the greatest thing I know."

Dropping into a nostalgic mood, the Babe talked about the days when he was the greatest drawing card and possibly the greatest player in the game.

Ty Cobb was his personal nominee for the outstanding baseball figure of his time and he picked the Yankee 1927 team that had Tony Lazzeri, Joe Dugan, Lou Gehrig, Mark Koenig, Bob Meusel, Earle Combs, Herb Pennock, George Pipgras, White Hoyt and Wilsey Moore on its roster as the greatest team.

That October afternoon in Chicago back in the 1932 World Series when he pointed to the fans where he would hit Charley Root's next pitch for a home run and then did it ranks as his "thrill of a lifetime."

"Sure I pointed," the Babe said. "I just got mad and got away with it."

Ruth doesn't often go to the ball games any more.

"It's not that I don't like baseball any more," he explained. "It's just that I want exercise. I play golf twice a week and generally bowl three times. If it wasn't for this bad leg of mine I'd be out there every day."

Although he hasn't seen too much of the modern day players, the Babe took one look at Ted Williams and labeled him a "natural." He'd rather play ball than eat just like I used to do," commented the Bambino.

Ruth thinks baseball is in for its greatest attendance year in history, but he wonders how much the players will get.

"Nobody will top my $80,000 salary," the Babe declared emphatically. "In my day they used to take my picture and the contract, too. Now they just let you hear about some of these fancy salaries by rumors. I'd like to see all the teams publish the complete salary lists, there'd be some big surprises then. All you hear about are the big ones."

Feller's Strikeout Total At 118 After Whiffing 14 In Night Game; Seerey Stars

BY JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Bobby Feller's amazing record of 118 strikeouts in 107 innings so far outdistances the field that his sole competition appears to be the dusty record books in the hall of fame.

With Hal Newhouser, the 1944-45 king, running a distant second with 75 victims and no National league hurler up to the 50 mark, Rapid Rube has only Rube Waddell's modern big league record of 343 at which to aim.

BOXING RULERS IN HUDDLE OVER NEW HEAVYWEIGHT CLASS

Proposal For a 185-Pound Class May Come Before September Meeting

By RUSS NEWLAND
SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—When the National Boxing association opens its 1946 convention at Cleveland next September, the agenda will include proposed adoption of a 185-pound or "cruiserweight" class.

The idea undoubtedly will be accorded a popular reception by many who long have felt there has been too great a poundage difference between the present light heavyweight division at 175 pounds and the big boys ranging up to the 270 pound Primo Carnera made rings crack under.

At the same time the proposal to institute a new fighting weight definitely will find opposition from diehards and dissenters. The non-conformists' plea will be based on the argument of "let well enough alone."

Nevertheless the proposal to institute a new weight class merits fullest consideration and this is the time to quote Abe J. Greene, president of the NBA, who circularizes the membership as follows:

"The light heavyweight division came into being as recently as 1903, the idea of only one man who did not like the idea of middleweights boxing heavyweights. The flyweight class did not come along until 1911, because little fellows under 112 pounds were being required to box 118-pounders.

"Boxing is predicated on weight equality and sportsmanship. This is the Carnera (254)-Loughran (176) bout some years ago, pitting a good 176 pounder against a mediocre ring giant was not a fair match. Nat. Fletcher's record book weighed Carnera at 260 pounds and Tommy Loughran, 185, for the Miami, Fla., bout, 1934."

"The big fellow won over a much better boxer solely because he was big. Bob Fitzsimmons (167)—and there have been none like him since—knocked out heavyweight Jim Corbett (183) but was, in turn, knocked out by Jim Jeffries (219). Fitz was just too small and proved his class at his own weight, three years later, winning a world title at his own weight in the newly created light heavyweight class.

"Of course the move to establish a 185 pound class would meet with opposition from those who like to build up heavyweight reps by belting out 176 pounders."

MIDDIES, ST. PAUL TAKE 'B' OPENERS

In Class B softball league lid-lifters at Reilly field last night, the Middies romped to a 26-0 win over the Lions behind Scullion's one-hit twirling and St. Paul's trounced the Jennings A. C., 17-3.

Scullion also starred at the plate for the Lions, bashing out four hits in as many trips to the plate.

Other hitting stars of the evening included Yeager of the Jennings A. C. and Nocera and Alexander of St. Paul's. All connected for three safeties in four appearances at the plate.

Leetonia Strengthens Lead In American Loop With 6-1 Win Over Eagles; Recs Lose

There were plenty of runs, hits and errors in action on the Centennial park diamonds last night and after the dust had cleared, it was revealed that Leetonia had strengthened its lead in the American league with a 6-1 conquest of the Eagles and Demings had slipped into the National loop leadership with a 7-5 victory over the Italians.

In other contests last night, Washingtonville trimmed the Recreation by a 6-4 count and the Electric Furnace walked over the hapless V. F. W.

Leetonia sewed up its game with the Eagles with a four-run spurge in the third after trailing by a 1-0 margin through the first two innings.

Pitcher John Clunan was never in trouble but lost a shutout when he fed a home run ball to Shortstop Bob Scullion in the first. The Eagles connected for only two other hits.

"Hank" Dermotta, Eagles hurler, gave up nine hits, two each by Stumpo and Holland.

It was the fourth straight win for the visitors and the third loss in four starts for the Eagles.

Capitalizing on several walks and the loose play of their rivals, the Electric Furnace put on its biggest run-scoring spree of the campaign in defeating the V.F.W., 15-5.

The Furnacemen collected only six hits from Bixley's tosses but got most of them when the bases were jammed.

Furnace hurler Courtney allowed the V.F.W. 10 hits but was never in trouble after his mates gave him three runs in the first to overcome a momentary Vets' lead.

Demings In First Place

Breaking a 5-5 deadlock with two runs in the eighth inning, Demings registered a 7-5 win over the Italians to take undisputed possession of the top rung in the National league standings.

Each team scored twice in the first and Demings added another pair of tallies in the third to take a lead which held out until the sixth when the Italians rallied to knot the count at 5-5.

Demings margin of victory came when Sam Pridon opened the eighth with a walk and scored on singles by Crumbaker and Don Brudery. Crumbaker also crossed the plate with an unneeded run when Drakulich was safe on an error.

Washingtonville posted its initial win of the season in upsetting the Recreation, 6-4, thereby dropping the Recs from their first place tie into the No. 3 slot in the standings.

"Sarge" Gregg, Rec pitcher, gave up 10 hits and although his mates collected 13, they were unable to make them count.

Eddie Pukalski of the Recreation copped slugging honors with three singles in four trips to the plate.

BY JACK HAND

(Associated Press Sports Writer) Bobby Feller's amazing record of 118 strikeouts in 107 innings so far outdistances the field that his sole competition appears to be the dusty record books in the hall of fame.

With Hal Newhouse, the 1944-45 king, running a distant second with 75 victims and no National league hurler up to the 50 mark. Rapid Robert has only Rube Waddell's modern big league record of 343 at which to aim.

Early in the spring at Cleveland's Clearwater, Fla., training base, Feller told reporters he had only one major aim in 1946—regaining his strikeout crown that had been won by Bobo Newsom, Alie Reynolds and Newhouse since he went into the navy.

"I don't see how my going after strikeouts could hurt the club in any way," he said then. Manager Lou Boudreau would certainly be the last to complain.

The Tribe has won but 19 games and the Van Meter, Iowa speed-boy has captured eight, working 11 complete contests. The only time he failed to go the route, he was lifted for a pinch hitter at Boston. Three times he has been hit hard but in every other start he has looked like just about the best pitcher in baseball.

The Washington Senators have been the chief contributors to his soaring strikeout total. When he faced them for the first time this season, May 17 he whiffed 14 and last night he repeated the trick with 14 additional third strike victims in coasting to a 10-2 decision. Just as in Feller's earlier start against the Senators, Mickey Haefner was the losing victim. Pat Seerey with a three-run homer and Frank Hayes with a three-run double struck the big blows in the 12th inning.

BOXING RULERS IN HUDDLE OVER NEW HEAVYWEIGHT CLASS

Proposal For a 185-Pound Class May Come Before September Meeting

By RUSS NEWLAND
SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—When the National Boxing association opens its 1946 convention at Cleveland next September, the agenda will include proposed adoption of a 185-pound or "cruiserweight" class.

The idea undoubtedly will be accorded a popular reception by many who long have felt there has been too great a poundage difference between the present light heavyweight division at 175 pounds and the big boys ranging up to the 270 pounds. Primo Carnera made rings crack under.

At the same time the proposal to institute a new fighting weight definitely will find opposition from diehards and dissenters. The non-conformists' plea will be based on the argument of "let well enough alone."

Nevertheless the proposal to institute a new weight class merits fullest consideration and this is the time to quote Abe J. Greene, president of the NBA, who circulates the membership as follows: "The light heavyweight division came into being as recently as 1903, the idea of only one man, who did not like the idea of middleweights boxing heavyweights. The fly-weight class did not come along until 1911, because little fellows under 112 pounds were being required to box 118-pounders.

"Boxing is predicated on weight equality and sportsmanship. This Nat. Carnera (254) Loughran (176) bout some years ago, pitting a good 176 pounder against a mediocre ring giant was not a fair match. (Nat. Fleischer's record book weighted Carnera at 280 pounds and Tommy Loughran, 185, for the Miami, Fla., bout, 1934).

"The big fellow won over a much better boxer solely because he was big. Bob Fitzsimmons (167)—and there have been none like him since—knocked out heavyweight Jim Corbett (183) but was in turn knocked out by Jim Jeffries (219). Fitz was just too small and proved his class at his own weight, three years later, winning a world title at his own weight in the newly created light heavyweight class.

Of course the move to establish a 185 pound class would meet with opposition from those who like to build up heavyweight reps by belting out 176 pounders."

MIDDIES, ST. PAUL TAKE 'B' OPENERS

In Class B softball league lid-lifters at Rellly field last night, the Middies romped to a 20-0 win over the Lions behind Scullion's one-hit twirling and St. Paul's trounced the Jennings A. C., 17-3.

Scullion also starred at the plate for the Lions, bashing out four hits in as many trips to the plate.

Other hitting stars of the evening included Yeager of the Jennings A. C. and Nocera and Alexander of St. Paul's. All connected for three safeties in four appearances at the plate.

Leetonia Strengthens Lead In American Loop With 6-1 Win Over Eagles; Recs Lose

There were plenty of runs, hits and errors in action on the Centennial park diamonds last night and after the dust had cleared, it was revealed that Leetonia had strengthened its lead in the American league with a 6-1 conquest of the Eagles and Demings had slipped into the National loop leadership with a 7-5 victory over the Italians.

In other contests last night, Washingtonville trimmed the Recreation by a 6-4 count and the Electric Furnace walked over the hapless V. F. W. team, 15-5, although outlived 10 to 6.

Leetonia sewed up its game with the Eagles with a four-run spurge in the third after trailing by a 1-0 margin through the first two innings.

Pitcher John Chuan was never in trouble but lost a shutout when he fed a home run ball to Shortstop Bob Scullion in the first. The Eagles connected for only two other hits.

"Hank" Dermotta, Eagles hurler, gave up nine hits, two each by Stumpo and Holland.

It was the fourth straight win for the visitors and the third loss in four starts for the Eagles.

Capitalizing on several walks and the loose play of their rivals, the Electric Furnace put on its biggest run-scoring spree of the campaign in defeating the V.F.W., 15-5. The Furnacemen collected only six hits from Bixley's tosses but got most of them when the bases were jammed.

Furnace hurler Courtney allowed the V.F.W. 10 hits but was never in trouble after his mates gave him three runs in the first to overcome a momentary Vets' lead.

Demings In First Place

Breaking a 5-5 deadlock with two runs in the eighth inning, Demings registered a 7-5 win over the Italians to take undisputed possession of the top rung in the National league standings.

Each team scored twice in the first and Demings added another pair of tallies in the third to take a lead which held until the sixth when the Italians rallied to knot the count at 5-5.

Demings margin of victory came when Sam Pridon opened the eighth with a walk and scored on singles by Crumbaker and Don Brudery. Crumbaker also crossed the plate with an unneeded run when Drakulich was safe on an error.

Washingtonville posted its initial win of the season in upsetting the Recreation, 6-4, thereby dropping the Recs from their first place tie into the No. 3 slot in the standings.

"Sarge" Gregg, Rec pitcher, gave up 10 hits and although his mates collected 15, they were unable to make them count.

Eddie Pukalski of the Recreation copped slugging honors with three singles in four trips to the plate.

Cash-Ins of Bonds Top New Purchases

WASHINGTON, June 5—Cash-ins of the Series E Savings bond—the former "War Bond"—have outstripped new purchases by $486,930,000 this year, Treasury figures disclosed today on the eve of a campaign to promote greater bond buying.

E Bond redemptions from the beginning of the year to June 1 totaled $2,598,655,000, as against $111,725,000 in new purchases.

For all current savings bonds, new purchases have exceeded cash-ins of the same issues—Series F and G as well as E—by $629,182,000.

Furthermore, combined sales of the E, F and G issues for the first five months of 1946 totaled $3,470,440,000, which officials translated to "an annual rate of $8,300,000,000" and described as higher than predicted last December.

The nationwide bond-selling campaign which opens tomorrow—second anniversary of D-day in Normandy—and runs through July 4 was described officially as a step to combat inflation.

WORLD-WEARY

calls Barkley was upheld at 9:14 p. m. on a rollcall vote of 45 to 17. He ordered the senators to reassemble an hour early today at 11 a. m.

The draft act currently is operating under a six-week stop-gap extension that runs out July 1. Its age limits are 20 through 29, but the senate restored the wartime 18 through 44 yesterday, even though the armed services have said they did not want men over 25.

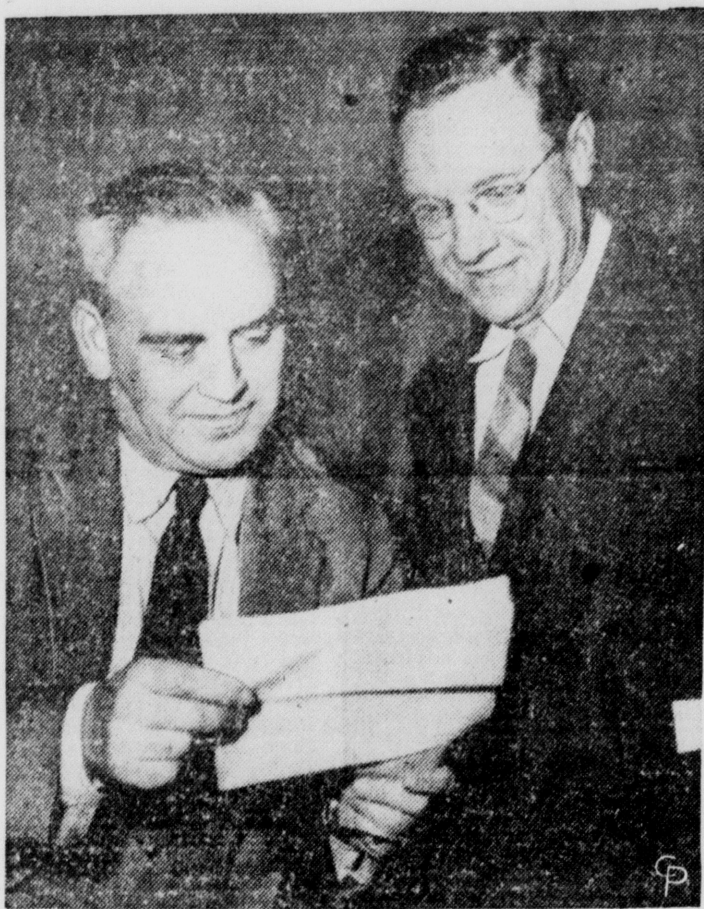

Most of yesterday's senate debate centered around the necessity for drafting teen-agers to police Germany and Japan.

The test found 22 Republicans supporting the teen-age induction and 12 against. The Democrats split 31 for and 13 against.

The senate then proceeded to vote the pay increases ranging from the $25 monthly for army privates and navy apprentice seamen to $2 for top non-commissioned ranks.

The 10 leading American agricultural states suffer an annual loss of approximately $50,000,000 through hailstorms.

THE THEATER

Look who's between the army and the navy. It's Olivia de Havilland out-maneuvering Ray Milland and Sonny Tufts in "The Well-Groomed Bride."

Maria Montez, Robert Paige and Sabu are starred in "Tangier," a story of intrigue, danger and drama showing tonight and Thursday at the State theater. Packed with exotic thrills and suspense, the melodrama is set at the "crossroads of the world" in North Africa.

Riotous merriment and Ray Milland comprise the bill of fare at the State Friday and Saturday, when Paramount's comedy, "The Well Groomed Bride," arrives. Sonny Tufts and Olivia DeHavilland co-star with Milland in what is said to be one of the season's most hilarious romantic plays.

"Smooth As Silk," with Kent Taylor and Virginia Grey, and "House of Horrors," starring Bill Goodwin, Robert Lowery and Virginia Grey, are billed at the Grand tonight.

A large cast, including Ken Curtis, Jeff Donnell and Adelle Roberts, is featured at the Grand Thursday through Saturday, when Columbia's all-star rodeo, "Throw a Saddle On a Star," will be shown.

Fred Malorus of St. Louis, Mo., said when he opened the door of his fifth floor room he was "almost knocked down by the black smoke."

"Even in the smoke," he said, "I could see five bodies in the hallway. I closed the door quickly and got out on the ledge outside, thinking to myself that I would jump if the firemen didn't come pretty quick. They got to my room in a few minutes and led me out all right."

Miss Julia Barry, the hotel's chief night operator, was overcome by smoke in her second floor cubby-hole. Two waitresses cragged her to the street.

Shortly after the fire started, a white-haired man appeared at a sixth floor window, waving his arms and screaming. He disappeared, then reappeared and dropped this note: "I will kill myself if I am not saved."

Firemen rescued him.
